What’s New in 2015

- From the origins of the BGP, OFN has led industry efforts to make the Program work better and work for more CDFIs.

- The 2015 Notice of Guaranty Authority introduces a mechanism that we believe could give more flexibility to CDFIs and allow more CDFIs to benefit from the long term, affordable debt made available through the BGP.
What’s New in 2015?

The Alternative Financing Structure (AFS)
Alternative Financing Structure

- Newly Formed Affiliates (NFA) of existing certified CDFIs may apply for certification for the sole purpose of participating as a borrower under the Bond Guarantee Program (BGP).

- The NFA could borrow without recourse (or with limited recourse) to the controlling CDFI, allowing CDFIs to segregate bond borrowings from other, likely unsecured, creditors.

- The Newly Formed and Certified CDFI must be deemed credit-worthy in its own right with sufficient net assets and liquidity to adequately service bond indebtedness.
Alternative Financing Structure

To become certified, the NFA can rely on the financing track record from its Controlling CDFI to meet the "financing entity" test.

The NFA must meet the "primary mission" and "non-government entity" certification requirements on its own merit.

The NFA can meet the "development services" and "target market" criteria through an Operating Agreement with the Controlling CDFI.
Alternative Financing Structure

- Certification qualifies the NFA only for BGP participation. To participate in other CDFI Fund programs, the NFA would have to meet the financing entity requirements on its own merits.

- An Operating Agreement must exist between the NFA and its Controlling CDFI providing evidence of control and ownership and details covering governance, management, and operations of the NFA by the Controlling CDFI.
Alternative Financing Structure

- NFA must be certified prior to submission of a Guarantee application

- Deadline for NFA certification is May 22
OFN 2015 BGP Strategy

- As Qualified Issuer

Three Ways to Participate in BGP
