Applying for Membership

OFN Members are CDFIs that demonstrate a commitment to performance by acting as disciplined lenders and/or investors in community development and as responsible stewards of other people’s resources.

OFN Members support OFN’s core values of Justice and Excellence. They demonstrate a commitment to OFN’s core purpose—to align capital with social, economic, and political justice—and to OFN’s mission. OFN members are committed to building, growing, and improving the opportunity finance field through cooperation and information sharing.

OFN’s Membership

OFN’s membership is diverse. It includes community development loan funds, community development venture funds, community development credit unions, community development banks, and Native CDFIs. Our smallest CDFIs have assets of less than $1 million and our largest manage more than $500 million in assets. This diversity is our strength. Together, we mine our diversity to learn and innovate.

OFN enjoys a dynamic relationship with its Member CDFIs that requires and rewards dedication to mission, performance, honesty, flexibility, and collaboration—both by OFN and by its Members.
